Rules and Regulations.

- Any resident of Hocking county may become a member of the society by paying one dollar into the treasury and will receive one membership ticket good during the fair.
- Any member of the society, on presenting his or her membership ticket may enter as many articles for exhibition as they choose and shall be entitled to free admission to the fair grounds.
- Tickets will be furnished by the treasurer.
- Competition on sweepstakes open to the world.
- No animal shall be shown in more than one class except sweepstakes and as one of a pair or herd.
- An entrance fee of 5 per cent of the first premium will be charged on all entries of live stock, except sweepstakes and speed classes, which will be charged 10 per cent of amount offered. Any person may enter as many different articles as he or she may own in any one of the departments, that have been manufactured or produced in the county, free of charge. All articles manufactured outside the county will be charged an entrance fee of 10 per cent, on first premium.
- All entries on live stock shall be made on or before Wednesday at 3 o'clock p. m., first day of fair, August 23, 1906, and stock to be on the ground by 6 o'clock p. m., of the same day. Entries shall be made in the name of the bonafide owner of the animal or premium will not be awarded. When animals are not deemed worthy, the committee will refuse to award a premium. Entries in all departments, except live stock, shall be made on or before Thursday at 10 o'clock p. m., August 24, 1906. (Cut flower need not be placed on exhibition until 8 o'clock the last day of fair, August 25, 1906.) Articles must be entered in the name of the bonafide owner or premium will not be awarded. On all articles not deemed worthy the committee shall refuse to award a premium.
- All stock and all articles exhibited will be required to be on the ground until 3 o'clock in the afternoon of the third day unless special leave is granted by the president or secretary. Any violation of this forfeits the premium.
- Persons exhibiting thoroughbreds will be required to furnish a pedigree and certificate of registration of the animal to be exhibited to the secretary, at the time of making the entry. This rule shall apply to thoroughbred horses, cattle, sheep and hogs.
- No stalls will be assigned until the entries are made.
- All members of the awarding committee are requested to be on the Board's stand on the respective days promptly at 10 o'clock a. m., when their names will be called, vacancies filled and they enter upon their duty.
- All booth privileges must be paid for in advance; no deviation from this rule will be allowed and no money returned.
- Straw for bedding will be furnished free of all expense to all stock entered for exhibition. For all horses entered and not exhibited there will be a charge for stall of $1 per head for each day of the fair. Corn, oats and hay will be sold on the ground to all who desire at reasonable rates.
- Superintendents will receive stock and articles on exhibition.

A Politician.

When President McKinley fell victim to an anarchist's bullet, his successor, President Roosevelt, carried out his policies during the entire remainder of the term and he was loudly applauded by the people for his action. When Governor Pattison gave up his life it was rumored very generally in republican circles that in view of the fact that but few important changes had been made, these few would be held sacred and his policies carried out. But a few weeks have passed and we are already face to face with a change of program, Harris is showing that he is either a politician or the tool of a gang now in control of the machinery of the state and that all will be undone at the earliest possible moment. We don't believe the good people of the state will sanction any such action. The people voted a change. There can be no doubt about it and Harris is doing nothing more than to undo what the people have done.

paths marked out by his predecessor. According to dispatches, other changes will follow and democrats must go.—Jackson Herald.

Avoid Trust Money.

New York, July 15.—At the suggestion of William J. Bryan, says today's Herald, advantage will be taken of the reception which is to be given him on his

- All premiums not called for on or before Dec. 15, 1906, will be forfeited to the society.
- No premium will be awarded in trotting or pacing races unless there are five horses entered and three to go at one time.
- All stock brought within the enclosure of the fair ground must be secured by halter or otherwise.
- Racing will be governed by the National Rules.
- No game, gift, enterprise or scheme of whatever name whereby money shall change hands, upon chance will be permitted on the grounds. Violations of this rule will be punished in the same manner as other offenses against the peace and good order of the fair.
- Committeemen will ballot for premiums and make awards without previous consultation. If there is no majority agreeing on first ballot, the members of the committee will compare views as to the relative merits of the animals without expressing individual preference, and a second ballot will be taken. If, after balloting, the committee is satisfied that no agreement or award of premium can be made, then the member in charge will add another person to the committee and the award shall be conferred to the animals only that have received ballots from the original committee.
- If it be ascertained that any exhibitor has in an ungentlemanly and public manner taken exceptions to the judgment of the awarding committee, the Board of Managers shall expel such person so offending from competition for a premium or exhibition on the grounds of the Society until he shall make proper apology and be reinstated by a vote of a majority of the whole board.
- All protests must be made in writing and filed with the secretary by 12 o'clock m., of the last day of the fair.
- No person will be allowed to interfere with the committee during their deliberations, and any person who, by letter or otherwise, attempts such interference, will be excluded from competition, and if the board is satisfied that a premium has been obtained by fraud, either by double entries or any other deception or unfairness then such premium shall be withheld.
- No intoxicated person will be allowed on the ground during the fair.
- All persons entering live stock will be furnished with stall tickets in the order in which they are entered. First Premium—Blue. Second Premium—Red.

Exhibition

All classes will be passed upon on the second day of the fair, except classes H and P, which will be passed upon on the morning of the third day of the fair.
26. In case of unfavorable weather, thereby reducing the display of stock, and attendance below an average fair weather display and attendance, the premiums will be paid pro-rata, after the expenses of running the fair are deducted.
27. All entries will be kept strictly private until after the award of premiums.
28. The annual election of officers of this society will be held at the court house at one o'clock p. m., on the last Saturday in December, 1906, and annually thereafter, unless otherwise ordered, and a majority of members assembled for such purpose shall constitute a quorum for the election of directors and such other business as may properly come before them.

Rev. Sam P. Jones Among Speakers.

The program that has just been completed for the assembly and camp meeting at Lancaster, August 1 to August 19, includes many of the best known speakers of the country, among them Rev. Sam P. Jones, who drew large crowds at the meetings a year ago.

These are some of the other speakers: Rev. George K. Stuart, Dr. R. B. Miller of Ohio Wesleyan university, Dr. A. E. Smith, president of Ohio Northern university; Ralph Parlette, humorist-lecturer; Dr. J. M. Thoburn, Jr., lecturer; Rev. J. S. Rutledge of the Anti-Slavery league; Miss Eva Shontz of Chicago; L. B. Wickersham, lecturer; Professor F. B. Pearson, Columbus, and Dr. J. C. Arbuckle, Washington C. H.

Rev. Dr. W. E. Biederwolfe of Monticello, Ind., who has been associated with D. J. Wilbur Chapman in evangelistic work in many of the larger cities of the country, will have charge of the evangelistic services during the camp meeting. C. W. Miles of Bellefontaine will lead the singing. The children's club will be directed by Miss Jane Akin of Louisville, Ky., and Rev. C. E. Turley will have charge of the Boys' club.

Among the officers of the board of trustees from Columbus are Vice Presidents C. A. Monroe and Rev. J. W. Mougey and E. J. Chenoweth. W. M. Wilkoff and T. H. Dill.

Spit Not.

(Murray City News.)

Logan has just past an ordinance fixing a fine of five dollars on any person who willfully expectorates upon the sidewalk.

We speak of this that our fellows from ward will be on their guard when they visit the county seat. If you wish to spit boys when in Logan, kindly and cautiously step to the edge of the sidewalk and spit just as far into the street as possible. Before drawing your head back however see to it that you rake your hand down over your chin to make sure the chin whiskers do not retain a drop of the juice which might drop upon the sidewalk.

After all, the ordinance is a good one and would be useful in our own town. There is nothing so filthy, so vulgar in appearance, as to see a sidewalk bespattered with tobacco spit. It doesn't speak well for the property adjoining and it speaks less for the man who puts it there.

The Devil Made Up.

It wasn't a Missouri editor but a printer's devil who was going thru his first experience on "making up forms." The paper was late and the boy got the galleys mixed. The peevish citizen, had been dumped in the forms and a galley describing a recent fire. It read like this: "The pallbearers lowered the body to the grave and as it was consigned to the flames there were few if any regrets for the old wreck had been an eyesore to the town for years. Of course there was individual loss but that was fully covered by insurance. The widow thinks the editor wrote the obituary that way because the latter partner of her joys and sorrows owed him five years subscription."

Rio Grande.

We publish an advertisement of Rio Grande College in this issue. The college is making progress. There was twenty per cent of increase in attendance last year. The present Summer school increased in like proportion. The pretty little town of Rio Grande with no saloons is a good place for young people to go to college. The library and other equipment of the college is increased each year.

One of Ohio's Grandchildren.

Oklahoma has the distinction of having at least six times over the largest territory, in both population and developed wealth, ever admitted to the union of states. Its entry today is only the fulfillment of tardy justice, for it ranks ahead of no fewer than 21, possibly 23, of the states already admitted, for its population is at least 1,200,000, and its wealth not less than $800,000,000.

The new state includes about 70,000 square miles, slightly above the average for all the states, which is 62,000. Ohio has 40,000 square miles. Of its total area, a large portion is fertile prairie land, suitable for tillage in all but the extreme western portion, which is useful chiefly for grazing. It is rich in minerals, the coal lands being extensive and valuable. The entire state much resembles Kansas, which borders it upon the north, and the crops are the same, with the addition of cotton.

The state has been settled largely by ex-residents of Kansas, Iowa and Illinois, with a sprinkling from Missouri, Ohio and other states. The great advance in land prices in Iowa and Illinois caused hundreds of farmers to sell, reinvesting in the cheaper lands in Oklahoma. The state is far from being an exclusively agricultural community, as there are 807 manufacturing institutions, with a capital of about $15,000,000. Oklahoma had last year 256 national banks. Churches and schools abound, education being provided for liberally, as it always has been in the states which owed much of their start to the influence and presence of settlers from Ohio, such as Iowa, Illinois and Kansas. In lineage, the new state might be called a grandchild of Ohio.

Oklahoma thus begins its existence as a full-fledged commonwealth under very favorable auspices. Its average of citizenship is high. The settlers come of good stock, and the Indians are the most advanced of all the remaining tribes. Their interests have been safeguarded by the general government, but they will be enabled to develop the natural wealth of their lands, and in fact encouraged to do so.—Dispatch.

A Grave Sin of Omission.

The conspicuous sin of omission on the part of the late session of congress was the failure to enact the promised law forbidding contributions to political committees by such institutions as fall within national jurisdiction. When President Roosevelt said in his message that "all contribution by corporations to any political committees should be forbidden by law," he pointed out a reform long desired and the necessity of which his own unpleasant experience during the campaign of 1904 must have made him feel most keenly. In two formal messages he advocated the passage of a bill was introduced and passed by the senate, but the house, supposed until last winter to be the branch most quickly responsive to the popular demand, allowed the bill to be sidetracked and then put to death by suffocation. The President did not see fit to urge action by the house, which could have been secured by the briefest kind of a special message while nothing, of course, was expected of Speaker Cannon and the stand pat house oligarchy who have found "fat frying" campaigns so profitable, and were evidently disposed to bid for one more big fund from corporations, to be used in carrying the next house.

Had this bill been allowed to emerge from committees no voice or vote would have been recorded against it. No man would have dared to oppose a measure which can be objected to only on the ground that boodle has become an indispensable factor in our elections. Nobody believes that the swollen campaign funds of the past ten years were either necessary or legitimate, and everybody knows that as long as corporations are permitted to supply the sinews of political war, our politics will be neither free nor honorable. Most of those contributions simply a contract beginning "for value to be received," and are to all intents and purposes merely the price of goods for future delivery.

The only way to beat such a bill to have it "lost in the shuffle," and this was done by Speaker Cannon and his satellites and without calling forth protest or rebuke from the White House. No purpose could have been more plainly advertised and no pious fraud more clearly disclosed.

Creamer Will Stay.

Columbus, O., July 7.—There is a probability that the law will stay the removing hand of Governor Harris for State Fire Marshal D. S. Creamer and that the latter will be allowed the unbridled control of his big department unless he shall give the Governor greater cause for removal than the firing of Republicans and the placing of Democrats in their stead.

It is hinted that the Attorney General from the start has considered that it would be bad politics for the Governor to remove any of the appointees of his dead predecessor; and therefore, it is believed, no effort will be made to twist the law into an authorization of executive control over the subordinates of the Fire Marshal. The retention of Creamer will turn into a farce the scramble that has been going on between H. H. Hollenbeck and Hy D. Davis for the appointment as Fire Marshal since there arose a probability of the removal of the Marshal. Hollenbeck was a single Republican appointed by Creamer. He was appointed by special request of Governor Pattison before he died, and Governor Pattison made the request because of the strong indorsements of the fire insurance men of the State, who support the department with a special tax. It is believed Hollenbeck will continue as special assistant, a position he has held since the department was organized.

Tell Them to a Policeman.

(Athens Messenger.)

Mayor Day and Marshal Finsterwald would indeed be the father and elder brother of the city's wronged if they undertook to run down and settle all the complaints that come to their ears. One day it is this, another day that, and of all the stories and tales of woe and trouble that are poured into the ears of these two city officials' there is no end. Some of the tales are pitiful, some laughable and some entirely ludicrous.

Jim Nero was the latest hero to report to Mayor Day. His story was a sad one to hear for it told, of a son, named after his father who swore at his breakfast, dinner and supper, and as well called his father and mother vile names and would not do a stroke of work. Mayor Day listened to the tale and while he made the old father no promises there is a feeling that James Nero, Jr., had better keep out of trouble and go to work or he will go where a generous supply of "work" is always on tap.

Marshal Fins got hold of the next complainant who proved to be Cal Lucas from Big Run. Cal wanted a fellow by the name of Frank Norman arrested at once for taking nine bottles of whiskey from him and while it would hardly do to say that Cal had been drinking it rather looked as though he bought whiskey by the dozen bottles if he had nine stolen. The Marshal sympathized with Mr. Lucas over the loss of his whiskey and promised to help him find it sometime—and Cal started home satisfied.

Will Issue $5,400,000 New Stock.

The Hocking Valley Railway company is preparing to issue $5,400,000 of additional common stock, which will make the total issue of common stock $16,400,000. The new stock will be issued for the absorption of the Kanawha and Michigan. The Hocking Valley now controls the Kanawha and Michigan, but all its stock will be retired and the road will be merged with the Hocking Valley.
